

The Third Man - In the Footsteps of a Film Classic

The quintessential tour for film buffs! More than 70 years after the premiere of this 1949 noir classic, Graham Greene's enigmatic character Harry Lime (Orson Welles) still haunts the city. The scars of the war have long disappeared but almost all the locations of Carol Reed's noir classic have remained unchanged. On this exciting illustrated tour follow us through the cobbled lanes and hidden courtyards of Old Vienna which inspired author Graham Greene, director Carol Reed and Oscar-winning Australian cinematographer Robert Krasker, see the places where Harry Lime lived, appeared and disappeared, learn the fascinating story of how one of the all-time greatest films was made and what Vienna was like in the days of Allied occupation, Cold War espionage and the black market.
